

'THE HIGHEST RESULT OF EDUCATION IS TOLERANCE.'
-- HELEN KELLER

Introducing... Each One Teach One

'Each One Teach One' provides comprehensive educational support for young people who can't afford to continue their study. This program has been initiated by the Millennium World Peace Foundation, which is the Bangkok-based Secretariat of the World Youth Peace Summit.

The philosophy is simple: we want each person who enjoys excellent educational opportunities to reach out to someone less fortunate. An education is a basic and fundamental right, as enshrined in the United Nations Convention on the Rights of the Child. Access to a quality education is also the best way to break the poverty cycle, and is therefore a fundamental block in peaceful nation-building. Sponsoring an education will change a life and strengthen society.

How to Sponsor an Education

Please read the project outlines on the next page and complete the tear-off form. You can choose to support an education now, or request candidate information to be sent to you. The minimum sponsorship period is one year. However, we encourage you to make a long term commitment, in order to provide stability for the future.

As a sponsor, you will receive an Each One Teach One membership card and the details of the young person whose education you are supporting. In most cases, you can contact them if you wish. You will also be able to follow their progress on the Each One Teach One website, and you will be officially thanked there.

Over 2000 years ago, Epictetus said 'only the educated are free.' Set someone free today.

About the World Youth Peace Summit

The World Youth Peace Summit brings together dynamic young leaders in the pursuit of peace. Our aim is to infuse the next generation of global leaders with the awareness, skills and support needed to make positive and lasting change. Find out more at www.wyps.org

Project #1: Educate a Buddhist Novice

We are collaborating with a prominent temple in Bangkok that provides schooling and religious tuition to needy boys from all over Thailand. This program not only secures the future of the 'novices' - it also boosts Thailand's spiritual strength and was established to combat a rapid decline in committed, long-term monks. Graduates become 'Buddhist descendants' and pledge to carry on the teachings in the interest of religion, nation and monarchy.

Project #2: Help Children in Wat Wang Jik

Wat Wang Jik Community School is located at Tambon Wang Jik in Pichit Province and is attended by 380 students. Although tuition is free, many of the children cannot afford to buy their uniforms, books or materials. Also, meal support is included in the sponsorship when necessary, to ensure all children at the school are properly nourished.

Project #3: Tsunami Recovery Scholarship

The Asian Tsunami left thousands of families broken, grieving and without any means of support. Now, many young people in Southern Thailand need your help returning to school or university. Each One Teach One Tsunami Recovery Scholarships are for young people 13 years of age and up, whose schooling has stopped or is vulnerable. These scholarships provide comprehensive support to the affected families, helping them recover emotionally and financially while the children continue their education.

Panurat Trihai is 13 years old. Her father was paralysed by the tsunami and the family now has no source of income. They have been surviving on a small donation received from a hospital, but Panarat cannot afford to return to her school. Please help her and her family recover from the catastrophe. Request information today.
